Jeff Muir Named Director of Finance For the City of Beverly Hills

Beverly Hills, CA (August 15, 2018) – Jeff Muir, a veteran of municipal finance, has been named Director of Finance for the City of Beverly Hills. Muir has served as Chief Financial Officer for the City of Culver City since 2010.

Muir began his career in the City of Inglewood as a budget analyst and worked in a variety of capacities, ultimately holding the position of the Assistant City Administrator and Chief Financial Officer before joining Culver City.

“Jeff brings a wealth of directly relevant experience to our City,” said City Manager Mahdi Aluzri. “His work with multiple cities in Southern California has prepared him to strategically and successfully manage our financial portfolio.”

As Director of Finance, Muir will be responsible for a total budget of $475 million and a General Fund budget of $236 million. He will serve as fiscal advisor to the City Manager, City Council and City Departments.

Throughout his career, Muir has overseen all aspects of city finance and led a variety of projects such as financial system implementations, ballot tax measures, developing financial forecast models, debt issuance and debt refinancing.

“I am honored to join the City of Beverly Hills,” said Muir. “I have dedicated my career to serving the public and look forward to working closely with the finance team to maintain the long-term fiscal health of Beverly Hills.”

He earned his B.A. in Economics from Occidental College and later an M.B.A. from the University of Southern California. He also currently serves as the chair for the South Bay Chapter of the California Society of Municipal Finance Officers. Muir will start with the City on September 10.
